

From the Clinic Desk

by Mac Morris

As I sit here trying to think of something to write about, my brain is pretty well fried from typing in 200 registration cards for this summer's Clinic. We are at 2,203 registrations and it is extremely slow at this time. We normally have over 5,000 registrants before the Clinic starts, so I hope somebody will come.

Changes at this year's Clinic are not many but are very important. Swimming has been moved back to Wednesday rather than Tuesday in order to get the rules interpretation in. There is also a change for tennis. Tennis sessions have been held at UNCG in previous years and we haven't used Show Pros there to check ID's. Last year we tried this for the first time and some people were upset because they had been attending without registering with the Association. Every other session is monitored, so why not tennis? The tennis rules session will be at 1:00 pm. Since we close registration at 12:00 and don't open again until 2:00pm, you will need to register prior to noon on Wednesday in order to attend the tennis rules session. So if you miss the rules session, don't be angry with us. We will also have parking instructions at registration so that you will be in the right place.

The clinicians are set now and we are pleased to have two outstanding women's basketball coaches Kim Furlough and Patty Evers speaking at the afternoon sessions. Add them to the strong list of high school coaches for the Wednesday football sessions and we think we have one of the best clinics ever. From reports I have gotten, if you are a basketball coach and don't hear Don Showalter on Monday, you will be missing out on a good experience. We hope you will choose to attend a lot of sessions and become a better coach.

This is the time of the year when you should be assessing the job that you did coaching this year. Did you stress the needed fundamentals to help your players become better? Did you do anything to improve chemistry and develop leadership on your team? Did you make the players aware of the fact that you cared about them during the whole year? Did you monitor your players' academic progress throughout the year? Did you maintain a good relationship with the principal and athletic director at your school? Did you teach your players what to do rather than telling them what to do and getting angry when they didn't do as you told them? What things can you do better next year?

Dealing with parents is the hardest part of coaching today. How did you handle that part? Can you keep them better informed this year? Do they know what your rules are and what the consequences of breaking them are?

I hope you enjoy the remainder of your summer and that you will get some benefits from the Clinic this year.

by Phil Weaver

When I first began writing this column, I thought it would be easy to continue because I had subjects I knew I wanted to write about. After a few columns it became evident that easy was not an appropriate word any longer. Those subjects I had been so fired up about were written and I needed to cover new topics which would help coaches. I hope it has never seemed like I was just writing to fill space because I've tried to select topics which did one of three things: 1. Provoke thought from the reader about a sport-related issue, 2. Clarify an NCCA policy or process, or 3. Bring to coaches' attention something which I felt was or could become important to high school athletics. Fortunately for me, but sometimes unfortunately for high school coaches and athletes, the National Collegiate Athletic Association often provides material for me, as it has for this issue's column.

I have just finished reading the entire report from the Commission on College Basketball which was formed in response to the basketball shoe company/recruiting scandal and chaired by Dr. Condoleezza Rice. When the Commission was created, I had hopes that the value of high school coaches and their programs would be recognized and promoted. I only received half of my wish. The Commission faults only "non-scholastic" (AAU, etc.) basketball for the problems, but never suggests a return to the high school season being the center for recruiting attention.

In my other position as Executive Director of NOCAD (National Organization of Coaches Association Directors), I wrote the NCAA requesting a high school basketball representative be added to the Commission. I received a polite but inadequate response, implying that my letter received absolutely no consideration. NOCAD represents over 165,000 coaches nationwide (not all basketball, of course), and realizing that the NCAA disregards us and what we do is more than disappointing. The Commission's report which came out months later confirmed our lack of value to the NCAA.

The majority of the report centered on Division I blue chip recruits and how to eliminate the influence of corporate money, rogue coaches and agents in their recruiting. The Commission's emphasis was on the NBA, "one-and-done" players, and how to more tightly control recruiting. The NCAA did not try to absolve colleges from blame, and other than naming schools, made strong statements about academic eligibility and recruiting practices at some schools. There was virtually no mention of Division II or III schools and the report concerns only men's basketball. There is frequent mention of "student-athletes" and the discussion of payment to athletes for their services.

Proposals of the Commission:

1. Provide a fund so that any athlete who completes two years of college may finish their degree. The fund would assist colleges which cannot afford to fund this option.

2. NCAA violations would be more strictly punished and complex cases would be handled by an independent group of adjudicators. It won't likely affect us at the high school level, but an independent body could more fairly administer the handling of violations.

3. Reform non-scholastic basketball. To reform non-scholastic basketball is a lofty ambition, but can this be done legally? The NCAA will have to enact tight restrictions on what kids can do in the summers before they are college students. How can it be legal for the NCAA to control the actions of kids who are not enrolled in college yet? The kids who are not being recruited will now be seen even less, while the few elite players will still dictate how entire teams and leagues are operated. The NCAA wants to set up and run showcase competitions and assign kids to one of three talent levels: an elite level of potential National Team players; a level for those with high collegiate-level potential; and a third level for other players with some collegiate potential. Just what we need - an NCAA-sponsored caste system for recruits taking place every July!

•4• Add public members to the NCAA Board of Governors. This provision is truly necessary, but it will be rendered much weaker unless they install at least one high school representative who is conversant regarding multiple sports. The NCAA seems unwilling to acknowledge that there are still high school coaches who have much more influence on kids than do their AAU coaches, and who certainly are better respected. This Board needs to have people who can speak for the non-elite athlete too, regardless of the sport.

•5• The NCAA should conduct recruiting showcases in July for the convenience of college coaches and to replace the current system.

•6• The NCAA would sanction events

as they have in the past. This could easily impact the NC/SC and East-West Games. In the long run, this will be good because some fly-by-night all-star game promoters would be closed down. But what if they decide that a state governing body's (NCHSAA) sanction would be acceptable; or worse, required? Currently, the NCHSAA is out of the sanctioning business.

•7• Allow more off-season coaching contact by college coaches and allow more coaches per college team. They laughably state that “NCAA schools are not doing enough to develop the next generation of coaches”. Look at Division I college basketball benches during games and you will see enough coaches to field at least three teams. I’ve joked that the Division I coaches want individualized instruction: one coach per player. Wouldn’t it be great if high school teachers and professors had such a small number of students in each teaching session?

The report is tedious at times and certainly maddeningly repetitive, as if they wanted to make sure it filled “x” number of pages, like you may have done when writing term papers. It is a valuable read for boys’ basketball coaches who have or may have an elite player. For coaches of other sports, it will probably only show how the NCAA is currently thinking about regulations and enforcement issues.

They Still Call Me “Coach”

Butch Blalock

NCC: WHAT SPORTS DID YOU COACH?

BB: The sports I coached were basketball and cross country.

NCC: WHERE DID YOU COACH?

BB: At Hunter Huss HS and Highland School of Technology for 30 years.

NCC: ARE YOU STILL INVOLVED IN COACHING OR ATHLETICS?

BB: I’m not really involved in coaching anymore, but I enjoy going to see my son Brandon’s teams play. He is the girls’ coach at Central Cabarrus High School. They have been really good the past few years so that has been a source of pride. I also get a chance to see my former assistant coaches’ teams play.

NCC: WHAT IS YOUR MOST MEMORABLE COACHING EXPERIENCE?

BB: My most memorable coaching experience is coaching in the East-West All-Star game and the North Carolina/South Carolina All-Star game. In the East-West game, I had the pleasure of coaching Chris Paul and on the East team at that time was PJ Tucker. Both now are players for the Houston Rockets of the NBA.

NCC: WHAT PART OF COACHING WAS THE MOST REWARDING FOR YOU?

BB: The most rewarding part of coaching for me was the lives you are able to touch on a daily basis, seeing young people grow into productive citizens. Also, my first year of coaching was with my dad and being able to work alongside of him, doing something that we both loved will always be special. Another rewarding part of my career was starting the Highland Tech athletics program. The school had been closed for years and we had to start from scratch. No ticket booth, no bleachers, no press box, no scoreboard, no lights, and the gym was not usable. But with the help of a lot of dedicated booster club members, coaches and administration (Lee Dedmon), Highland Tech has all of that now and the athletic department represents the overall mission of the school in an outstanding manner.

NCC: WHY DID YOU GO INTO COACHING?

BB: I went into coaching because of the love I have for athletics and because my father was my role model, I was always in the gym or on the fields with him. After playing basketball at Tennessee Technological University, I wanted to share what athletics did for me with the young people that I came in contact with. Athletics teaches discipline -- sometimes you have to accept a role that you don’t particularly like at the time for the betterment of the team’s overall success; and no matter what role you are asked to play, be a star in that role.

NCC: WHAT IS YOUR FUNNIEST COACHING MEMORY?

BB: We were on our way to Johnson C. Smith University to play North Meck in the conference tournament final. The traffic on the interstate was backed up and we were traveling in a van at the time (when vans were legal). So we dressed in the van and when we finally got to JCSU, we ran off the van with a ball, straight onto the floor for warm-ups. I still remember there was just 5:26 left in the warm-up period.

NCC: WHAT WAS YOUR MOST EMBARRASSING COACHING MOMENT?

BB: My pants ripped at a Christmas tournament game. I coached the second half of the game with my jacket on...I never was known to keep my jacket on.

NCC: WHAT WAS YOUR FAVORITE PLAY OR STRATEGY?

BB: We always ran a motion-type of offense and some type of pressure defensively. I loved any kind of ball pressure - how much pressure depended on personnel. I remember Coach Hal White, former coach at North Gaston, used to say, “All good teams can play at different speeds”, so I always adhered to that.

NCC: WHO HAD THE TOUGHEST TEAMS YOU COACHED AGAINST?

BB: The toughest teams I coached against have to be Ashbrook coached by Joe Sheppard and Marty Hatchell, North Meck coached by Leroy Holden, Harding coached by Gosnell White, Cherryville coached by Scott Harrill, Bessemer City coached by Danny McDowell, Lincolnton coached by Bob Cowie, Independence coached by Tony Huggins and East Lincoln coached by Neil Hodges. Those teams were always well-prepared and the kids played really hard.

NCC: WHAT CHANGE(S) WOULD YOU MAKE TO THE CURRENT RULES IN YOUR SPORT?

BB: I think the state of the high school game is in a good place. If there was one thing I would like to see, it would be the continued improvement of dialogue between officials and coaches.

JOE'S CORNER

by Joe Franks

Clinic Week is almost here, so here are some tips to make things run more smoothly.

1) First and foremost, PLEASE note that SWIMMING sessions have returned to Wednesday, 7/18 this year. Also, Athletic Injury Management is back to the traditional three day, Monday-Wednesday schedule.

2) Here are some general pointers to help things run smoothly for all of us:

A) We all know that Monday is the most crowded day, so understand that there will be lines – both new registration and pre-registration – not to mention pictures. The picture lines are much shorter later on Monday afternoon and mid-morning Tuesday and Wednesday.

B) Make sure you have your ID with you – not in the car or at the hotel.

C) Remember that we take cash or check – no credit cards. There is an ATM in the Coliseum lobby to get cash from your card. On-site registration is $85.00.

... TENNIS COACHES – PLEASE READ The Tennis sessions on Wednesday will again be at UNCG. When you come to register or pick up your pre-registration at the Coliseum, make sure you pick up maps to direct you to parking at UNCG, the sessions and where the rules session will be held. The rules session is at 1pm and registration at the Coliseum closes at noon – there is NO registration at UNCG! Show Pros will be there checking to make sure everyone is registered, and you will not be able to get into the sessions unless you have been to the Coliseum. The schedule is up on the website, www.nccoach.org

... We want to make the newsletter valuable to you, so if there are any questions that we might be able to address in future issues for our Q & A segment, let us know at ncca@nccoach.org.

... I hope your summer is going well and we look forward to seeing you in Greensboro. Thanks again for all you do for our young people. Let's continue to make the title "Coach" one that is respected and admired.

NCC: WHAT ONE PIECE OF ADVICE WOULD YOU GIVE A BEGINNING COACH?

BB: I would tell them to always remember that the kids are why you got into coaching and to find mentors along the way. I had mentors like John Blalock, GC Harrill, Hal White, Gary Henry, Charlie Barnes, Ken Froneberger, Butch Adams, Green Burge and Ed Sadler. Those people always had good advice.

NCC: WHAT ARE THE MOST IMPORTANT THINGS FOR YOUNG COACHES TO DO IN DEALING WITH:

BB: Athletes: Be fair and honest even if it may hurt feelings. Have rules and stick to those rules. Make sure those rules are shared with your Athletic Director, administration and parents. Your parent meeting is a good place to share these with the parents.

Parents: Always remember that you have the parent's most-cherished possession in your care. Share your schedules and rules with them. I found that after games are over is not the best time to handle complaints from parents - have them call your office and schedule an appointment the following day. I call this the 24-hour rule. I have found that after some time has elapsed, tempers have calmed.

Administrators: If possible, meet with your principal once a week or more frequently. Let your administrators know of any emergencies that may occur as soon as possible.

Athletic Directors: Remember that your AD is there for you. Keep your AD informed of issues that you may be facing concerning anything dealing with your teams, parents and athletes. Remember that your AD is a liaison between you and your principal. All good AD's have your best interest at heart.

Other coaches: Support and respect fellow coaches and their area.

The press/media: Remember that the press and media have a job to do. If you don't want it repeated, don't say it. Think before you speak.

NCC: WHAT DOES THE NCCA MEAN TO YOU?

BB: Support, professional development, and being able to meet with other coaches throughout the state during the Coaching Clinic; being able to toss around ideas and find out how other coaches may handle different situations that you may encounter or have encountered is helpful.

NCC: OTHER COMMENTS YOU WOULD LIKE TO SHARE WITH OUR MEMBERS:

BB: The coaching profession has been good to me. The lifelong friendships you make are irreplaceable. The relationships developed with the athletes that you have come in contact with throughout your career are something that you will never forget. So, young coaches, cherish those moments and don't ever take them for granted. Don't underestimate the influence you have on the athletes who are entrusted to you.

Coaches: Help kick off “Sideline Hunger” food drive at Clinic

The NCCA is teaming up again with the North Carolina High School Athletic Association, Inc. (NCHSAA) to support local communities and scholastic sports in North Carolina through a food drive initiative in a series of scheduled food drives which will occur throughout the 2018-19 school year.

North Carolina is ranked the 8th most-affected state by hunger in the nation with 349 food deserts in 80 counties. Through the “Sideline Hunger” initiative and series of food drives, NCHSAA staff will work with food banks throughout the state to collect and distribute nonperishable items to neighbors in need.

This year’s “Sideline Hunger” initiative will launch during the 2018 NCCA Coaching Clinic with a food drive challenge. Coaches attending the Clinic are asked to bring nonperishable food items to the designated NCHSAA booth to be donated to the local food banks. Coaches who donate will be eligible to win incentives for their respective athletic programs and/or schools from the NCHSAA for the upcoming school year.

In September, the “Sideline Hunger” initiative will engage schools across the state through a friendly, competitive food drive. Winning schools will receive a cash award back to their school or athletic team on behalf of the NCHSAA. In December, food drive events will be held in conjunction with the state football championships and challenge the participating schools and fans to host local school food drives and/or bring donated nonperishable items to the state championship football games.

The series will culminate with a winter food drive event in which fans, students and community members will be challenged to bring donations of nonperishables to the NCHSAA Basketball Championships in March 2019. At both football and basketball championships, participating schools’ will be competing for cash awards based upon which school brings the most nonperishables to each championship venue.

Let’s “Sideline Hunger”!

Coaches needed for Kids’ Clinics

Hi Coaches! On Monday July 16th and Tuesday July 17th, the East-West All-Star Games will co-sponsor with the area Chick-Fil-A our annual Basketball and Football Kids’ Clinics at the Greensboro Grimsley High School campus. The Basketball Kids’ Clinic is Monday from 3-5 pm and the Football Kids’ Clinic will be held Tuesday from 4-6 pm at the Grimsley football practice field. The All-Star teams will help participants at the clinic stations, but we could also use the volunteer help of any of you coaches who could help supervise the stations and keep the flow of the Clinic running smoothly. The stations at both Clinics are just basic fundamental skills geared for 8-12 year olds. We especially need help during the Basketball Kids’ Clinic due to the scheduling conflict with the Basketball Rules session at the Coaching Clinic. If you think you would like to help us, please contact Coach Phil Weaver at the NCCA Office 336-379-9095, or me at 336-442-7419, or my email coachrhb@aol.com. Thanks for your time, and have a great summer! - Hank Bullard
